

Boutique Hotels Burnaby

Boutique Hotels Burnaby - Boutique hotels usually provide a stylish appearance and an intimate surroundings along with impeccable amenities. Generally, these kinds of hotels are not chain-affiliated. Boutique hotels are normally called lifestyle hotels or design hotels. This hotel trend began in North America during the 1980s. Various major cities have boutique hotels offering more than 100 rooms, whilst some are very quaint and small and feature single digit rooms to those less than 100.

The very first of the numerous boutique hotels comprise: the Bedford, a San Francisco hotel, the Hotel Village Court in San Francisco, the Blake`s Hotel in South Kensington and the Morgan`s Hotel, located in Murray Hill, NY.

The precise description of boutique hotels can be quite vague. Sometimes they are considered to be historic, whilst other times, they are hip. Often they have some kind of theme or unique design or architecture. Normally, a boutique hotel is known for some specifics such as design, service and target market. Boutique hotels are commonly themed. Different hotels try to provide a different experience by either choosing an overall theme for the hotel or offering theme rooms.

Anybody could enjoy the comfort of a boutique hotel. For example, they can be likewise enjoyed by honeymoon couples, business travelers or families on vacation. The standard age target market for most boutique hotels is around twenty five to fifty five age range. A lot of these hotels cater to upper income level or middle class. Various boutique hotels appeal to the corporate traveler who would be back and thus, offer repeat business for the hotel. They hope that these repeat clients will refer other customers and provide regular business on an annual basis compared to a specific season.

The level of personalized service provided at a boutique hotel sets them apart from conventional hotels. Quite often it is the objective of the boutique hotel to offer their clients with an extreme level of customer service that they will not be able to be given at a bigger hotel. In many boutique hotels, the staff might know the guests by their names. Some are known to offer fireplaces, bathrobes and the sophistication of canopy beds. The majority offer 24-hour guest services. There might be gift shops and bookstores on-site as well as healthy food choices and alternatives to relax the mind and body, like massage and spa services.

With whatever boutique hotel, there are a variety of features which will differ from place to place. Some focus on offering a soothing, calm and quiet atmosphere for instance. Others may present a lot of technological amenities. The bed and breakfast concept can be more or less the same as the boutique hotel. A lot of the boutique hotels provide delightful dining facilities and could have bar and lounge areas which are likewise open to the public. It seems to be a trend that is increasingly growing, with a lot of hotels which are new and old promoting themselves as being boutique. Searching for superior and quaint accommodation worldwide, the boutique hotels offer a unique approach to travel.